

New Executive Director

The Board is delighted to introduce Simone Hull, who will be taking over as Executive Director of the Association.

Simone joined the AHRC/SCRIPT Centre as Administrator in January this year. Hailing from the North coast of Cornwall, Simone gained an MA (hons) in Linguistics and English Language from the University of Edinburgh in 2005 and has subsequently worked in Administration at the University of Edinburgh for the Department of Geography and the Centres of Canadian Studies and South Asian Studies.

Her responsibilities as Executive Director for the EAHL will include:

- Servicing of the Association's Boards, Committees and General Assembly
- Financial Management
- Membership registration
- Assisting with Association activities
- Coordinating and disseminating information

She will also be the first point of contact for all enquiries regarding the Association.

Secretary to the Board

The EAHL would like to announce that as of 26th January 2009, Kathryn Hunter assumed the position of Secretary to the Board. She will be the academic coordinator for all Association events and activities.

EAHL 2008

The European Association of Health Law (EAHL) held its Founding Conference at the Royal Society of Edinburgh on 10th-11th April 2008. It was attended by over 100 delegates from 23 countries.

Fifteen (15) outstanding posters were presented and delegates voted over the two days of the conference on the best entry. The winner was Thomas Goffin from Leuven University. Congratulations Tom!

What can you expect of the European Association of Health Law?

The conference was also an occasion to discuss the Association's Constitution and its operating procedures. The organisational structure of the Association, including its Constitution (which was approved at the conference), can be found at the Association's website at: <http://www.law.ed.ac.uk/ahrc/eahl/eahl2008report/>

The following was agreed with respect to the philosophy, objectives and future action of the EAHL:

- Identifying unmet needs in the European health law context
- Bi-Annual Conference (see page 2 for more information on this)
- The future Programme of Action of the EAHL
 - Working Groups (see page 3 for more information on this)
 - Interest Groups (see page 4 for more information on this)
- Membership to the Association

Working Groups: a call for members

Research and Networks

Through this network, the EAHL will encourage synergies among research centres interested in health law, and facilitate collaboration among researchers in Europe. This Working Group was set up at the inaugural conference in Edinburgh, where proposals were made for the aims of the network, recruitment of members, organization and initial topics to be discussed through the network. The EAHL will map health law research in Europe and create a searchable database including:

- Information on institutions involved in health law research in Europe, and details of cooperative research projects and programmes.
- A list of experts or resource persons with expertise in health law, which may be used by members, to select partners for future international cooperative research projects on Health Law.

In order to allow individuals and institutions to network among themselves according to their need, the EAHL is in the process of building up a searchable database on the basis of information provided by members and by other means. (For further information on EAHL interest groups please see page 4.)

To start this process off, we invite those who have proposals for discussion topics to contact Anne-Marie Duguet: aduguet@club-internet.fr

Institutions

European institutions have great impact on health law. Health law in Europe is also influenced by world based organisations (eg. UNESCO, WHO, OECD). The “Europeanization” of health law is an ongoing process with health law systems increasingly becoming more closely connected. There is a growing need to have the voice of health lawyers heard at the European level. European institutions are therefore a focal point of attention for the Association.

The Institutions Working Group was setup to maintain a watching brief on European and international institutions whose work has a direct impact on health law and policy in Europe and where input from the Association might have a significant role to play. The Board is now in the process of establishing close relationships with European institutions in order to:

- Cooperate closely in health law issues
- Announce EAHL activities through the channels of the European institutions.
- Allow the activities of European institutions to be available via the EAHL website

Information on progress made with this undertaking will be placed on the website. Important developments in international (European) health law will be regularly published in the EJHL. For further information please contact Herman Nys: Herman.Nys@med.kuleuven.be

Teaching and Training

The objective of this Working Group is the improvement of health law teaching and training across Europe, through exchanges of best practice and experience, cross-fertilisation of ideas and the maximisation of dissemination opportunities. A particular area of unmet need that emerged during EAHL 2008 was capacity building and training in Eastern European countries. In addition to developing a network of persons and centres interested in the teaching and training of health law, the EAHL will develop a members-only area of its website where members can share teaching materials, curricula, and examples of best practice.

As an initial face-to-face forum the EAHL will host a one-day programme on Teaching and Training of Health Law in Europe during the Summer European University on health law and bioethics, 1-10 July 2009, Toulouse, France. Please see page 5 for more information on this event.

To suggest contributions to this event and for further information on all aspects of this Working Group, please contact Graeme Laurie on Graeme.Laurie@ed.ac.uk

Association Interest Groups

The aim of EAHL Interest Groups is to provide EAHL members with an opportunity for on-going interaction with colleagues along thematic lines. The groups are designed to be fora for discussion, networking, and joint activities within health law. As such, EAHL Interest Groups aim to help build a shared knowledge base of actors, institutions, and research in health law in Europe.

EAHL Interest Groups are closely integrated into the EAHL structure, most notably into research seminars, thematic workshops and the biennial conferences. Activities of EAHL Interest Groups may range from virtual networking via e-mailing lists, online newsletters or discussion fora, via input to EAHL events such as conferences, and to the organization of thematic workshops and publications within the EAHL framework. New EAHL Interest Groups can be initiated by any EAHL member and are open for all members to join (for the procedure see here) Information on the administration of interest groups can be found online at <http://www.law.ed.ac.uk/ahrc/eahl/research/interestgroups/>

Currently, the following EAHL Interest Groups are under construction:

Interest Group on Research Governance

Contact: Graeme.Laurie@ed.ac.uk

Interest Group on Advance Directives

Contact: Herman.Nys@med.kuleuven.be

If you want to take part in one of these groups, please email the respective contact person.

Procedure for Forming an EAHL Interest Group

EAHL members interested in setting up an Interest Group should submit a written proposal to the Board of Directors stating the Group's purpose and justification, the types of activities it intends to engage in, the name of the proposed founding Chairperson or Chairpersons, and the names of a minimum of seven initial members (which may include the original proponent(s)) from at least two different countries. Once approved by the Board of Directors, the Interest Group comes formally into existence and will be listed on the EAHL website.

To facilitate the recruitment of seven founding members, EAHL members interested in setting up an Interest Group may request the EAHL secretariat to circulate a Solicitation for Expressions of Interest to all EAHL members prior to the submission of their setup request.

Administration of EAHL Interest Groups

Each Interest Group is administered by its Chairperson(s), whose responsibilities include the setting up and maintenance of the Interest Group's activities, the keeping of a register of Interest Group members, and the submission of biennial reports on the Interest Group's activities and membership to the Board of Directors.

Interest Group status is reviewed every two years by the Board of Directors which, at its discretion, may discontinue Groups with fewer than seven members, no activities, or conduct incompatible with the EAHL Constitution.

Financial Dimensions of EAHL Interest Groups

The general presumption is that those Interest Group activities that involve significant costs must be self-supporting, with EAHL being generally unable to directly fund any such activities. EAHL carries no financial responsibility for the activities of Interest Groups. EAHL may, however, provide such basic logistical support as is essential to the running of Interest Groups.

The Relationship between EAHL Interest Groups and the EAHL Governing Structure

Interest Groups are administered autonomously by their Chairpersons, officers and members, in accordance with the EAHL Constitution and the relevant EAHL rules, and subject to supervision by the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors will appoint one or more of its members as an Interest Group contact person. Interest Groups are expected to actively take part in general EAHL activities, and to act as integral elements of EAHL.

Call for National Contacts

The EAHL is looking for representatives to act as national contacts for the Association. Please send any nominations to Simone.Hull@ed.ac.uk.
